Gordie Howe: "Mr. Red Wing"

NHL President Campbell presents the Hart Memorial Trophy to Howe last October. The 1959-60 season marked the fifth time Gordie has won the Cup as most valuable player, a league record.

On November 27, 1960, Howe became the first player in NHL history to score 1,000 season points. Here he shows three souvenirs of the historic game—a stick, a puck and a cut lip.

JOHN JAMES (JACK) ADAMS

General Manager

Born: Fort William, Ontario, June 14, 1895

The dean of general managers in the National Hockey League, Jack Adams this year marks up his 44th year in professional hockey and his 35th of association with the Red Wings. His record of longevity is greater than that of any other man who has served the game.

Through the years, Adams has gained a reputation because of his penchant for trading players. The current Red Wing team is a tribute to Adams' ability as an astute trader and juggler of players.

Adams has been an integral part of the Red Wing organization since he first arrived on the scene in 1927. Then 32, he came to the Motor City to be manager and coach of the year-old Detroit Hockey Club. Only the year before, the genial Fort William Irishman was playing with the Stanley Cup champion Ottawa Senators.

Literally starting from the ice up, Adams almost single-handedly built the Red Wing organization and the game of hockey in the Midwest. He made his team the best-known of the United States' clubs in the National League. Jack believes in promoting his team by showing it off and through the years the Red Wings have appeared in more cities, villages and hamlets than Adams can remember. However, Adams' achievements are not limited to his contributions to the Red Wings for he lists many contributions at the league level to the game itself.

Two huge panels on the walls of Adams' Olympia office contain several of his many plaques, symbols of the various and sundry honors he had received during his career. In 1959, he was unanimously elected to Hockey's Hall of Fame and last summer was present at the official opening of the building in Toronto. As one of the few colorful personalities remaining in sports, he is in demand as a speaker at banquets. From the podium he delivers his speeches in much the same way as he addresses his hockey players, frankly and forcefully. His thoughts on both sports and life carry a grand lesson for his young listeners and his contemporaries alike. Adams finds time to avidly follow the fortunes of the other big league sports teams in the Detroit area, and he views them with the same zeal he displays in hockey matters. Jack and Mrs. Adams have made their permanent residence in Detroit since 1937 when he became an American citizen.

SIDNEY GERALD (SID) ABEL

Coach

Born: Melville, Saskatchewan, February 22, 1918

For popular Sid Abel 1961-62 is his fourth full year as coach of the Red Wings. Abel's leadership of the Detroit team began in the middle of the 1957-58 season when the 43-year-old former hockey great replaced the ailing Jimmie Skinner. Abel is only the fourth full-time coach in the Detroit club's 35-year history. He is the first to bring with him such a brilliant playing record as a Red Wing as he compiled in his 11-year stay in Detroit. None of his predecessors—Jack Adams, Tommy Ivan, or Skinner—ever played for the Wings. Abel-guided teams have finished fourth the past two seasons and last years' edition made the playoff finals, losing to Chicago in six games for the Stanley Cup.

The greatest center in Red Wing history, Abel made his reputation through his superior leadership qualities. Sid was the first forward in the history of the National League to win All-Star recognition at two different positions. He made the second team as a left wing in 1941-42 and was named to the first team center spot in 1948-49 and 1949-50 and to the second team in 1950-51.

Sid came out of the West to start his career in 1938 as a left wing with Pittsburgh, then Detroit's top farm club. Promoted to the Wings, he saw little service. The following season he divided his time between Indianapolis and Detroit but suffered from a serious shoulder injury.

In 1941, he began his outstanding three-year stay at left wing on the old "Liniment Line"—Abel, Eddie Wares, and Don Grosso. Abel was captain of the Wings when they took the Stanley Cup in 1942-43, the first of three Cup winners that he captained. When he returned from two years' military duty for a full season in 1946, he started on a six-year span as a top centerman and a superb leader.

He first starred in 1948-49 when he was voted the most valuable player in the league, earning the coveted Hart trophy. The next year he had his best scoring year while working in the middle of the famed "Production Line" of Abel, Lindsay and Howe. After the 1952 playoffs, in which the Wings won the Cup in a record eight straight games, the 34-year-old Abel decided to retire. During the summer he accepted an offer to coach at Chicago. After two seasons, he resigned from his Chicago job and returned to Detroit.

Sid's family is one with a strong hockey background. Mrs. Abel is the former Gloria Morandy whom Sid met and married when she was Jack Adams' secretary at Olympia. Son Jerry, who will be 17 in December, is a promising hockey player, and 12-year-old daughter Linda is a die-hard Red Wing fan.

HENRY (HANK) BASSEN

Goaltender

Born: Calgary, Alberta, December 6, 1932. Height 5'10". Weight 170 lbs.

Probably the most pleasant surprise last season was the work of goalie Hank Bassen. In his first year with the Red Wings, Bassen progressed from an unknown to an alternate big league goaltender. He and Terry Sawchuk almost evenly divided the chores, Bassen making 33 starts and his veteran counterpart 35. The goalies split the two other games with the result that their official totals were: Bassen 34-1/6 games and Sawchuk 35-5/6.

The Detroit portion of the Hank Bassen story goes back to the summer of 1957 when he was part of a six-player deal between Detroit and Chicago. Hank had come up through the Chicago farm system, moving between the Black Hawks and Buffalo before spending a season at his home town of Calgary in 1956-57. After attending the Detroit training camp in 1957, he was sent to Seattle. At the end of the 1957-58 season, the Wings traded him to Springfield. There he shared the job and the next year was loaned to Vancouver. Hank's third try in the WHL turned out to be his best as he nailed down three individual honors.

On Bud Poile's recommendation, Adams drafted Bassen from the Vancouver list during the 1960 NHL meetings. The battle for the Red Wing goalie position was supposed to be a two-way fight between Sawchuk and Dennis Riggin, but Bassen entered the contest during training camp. The problem was resolved and Bassen was awarded the job as understudy to Sawchuk while the younger Riggin was sent to Edmonton to play every day.

Bassen was undefeated in his first five Detroit starts, not losing until November 12 at Montreal. Perhaps his best game was on Thanksgiving when he paced the Wings to a 3-1 win over the Canadiens.

Bassen gained an assist last season when Gordie Howe scored after receiving a pass from him in a game at Boston in March. The sandy-haired Basser, who looks younger than his 28 years, lives in Calgary with his wife and two sons.

ALEXANDER PETER (ALEX) DELVECCHIO

Born: Fort William, Ontario, December 4, 1931. Height 6'. Weight 190 lbs.

Alex Delvecchio's great year last season enabled the 29-year-old veteran to become the third highest scorer in Detroit hockey history. While surpassing his own previous highs in two departments, Delvecchio moved up three notches on the all-time scoring list. This year he should become the third Red Wing to hit the 200 mark in goals, needing 14 to accomplish this.

Listed as both a left wing and a center and capable at either position, Alex earned All-Star honors three years ago at the former post after playing center all his earlier years. He started last season at a left wing but in January, after the Boston trade, was shifted to center between Gordie Howe and Vic Stasiuk. This line was chiefly responsible for putting the team into the playoffs. This season, he was moved back to the left side in training camp to work with Howe and Ed Litzenberger. His work in the past has been good and steady enough to keep his name in the top five scorers on the team and among the top 20 in the league for the last seven seasons. Last year he was third on the team and tenth in the league.

1961-62 is Alex's 11th year in the National Hockey League with Detroit. He joined the Wings during the 1951-52 season, the year they won the Stanley Cup in eight straight games, and has been a regular and valuable member ever since. A durable player, Delvecchio has played every game in the last four seasons.

Originally scouted in his native Fort William, he played junior hockey in Oshawa in 1950-51 where his coach was a former Red Wing star, the late Larry Aurie. He turned professional in the fall of 1951, and after six games with the Wings' Indianapolis farm, he won promotion to the parent club and has never been away from Detroit since.

All-Star election was not new to this highly-respected player. In his sophomore season, 1952-53, Alex made the select team as a center. Thus, when he made the team again in 1958-59 as a left wing, he became the second player in All-Star history to make the team in two different positions.

Delvecchio maintains a home in Fort William where he is the proud and prosperous proprietor of a sporting goods store that bears his name. Alex and his wife, Teresa, have four children, two girls and two boys.

a Won Lady Byng Trophy

VALERE RONALD (VAL) FONTEYNE

Born: Wetaskiwin, Alberta, December 2, 1933. Height 5'9½". Weight 160 lbs.

Though he has scored only ten goals in his two years in Detroit, Val Fonteyne has offset this lack of offensive power by developing into a first-rate penalty killer. One of the fastest skaters on the team and in the league, and a determined workhorse, Val has handled this important job capably, especially during playoff time when he seems to be at his best.

He is a tireless skater and also a gentlemanly player, as witnessed by record of only one penalty in 1960-61 and only two last year. That this doesn't mean he backs off from anybody is evidenced by his all-out play in the corners. He is a real digger and goes into the corners with the same reckless abandon that he skates into the opponent's territory. Val's hard-going style has made him popular with the local fans. Being a fan's favorite was nothing new to Fonteyne. When he played with Seattle, he was one of the best-liked players in the Totem's history. Val is a completely "honest" hockey player and was probably the finest defensive left wingman in the Western Hockey League in some time.

Val had to skate uphill to make the big time. Despite continued improvement out West season after season, Val was judged "not ready" for the NHL when given several trials by the Red Wings. In 1959, Detroit wanted another look after Fonteyne had a terrific year, scoring 32 goals and 81 points to earn WHL All-Star left wing honors. Though not even listed on the Detroit roster, his work was so impressive that his contract was purchased from Seattle. And, after four years in the WHL, Val became a big leaguer.

Val, who is of French-Belgium descent, is a personable fellow with a quick sense of humor. His dark bushy eyebrows contrast with his short-cropped blond hair. A bachelor, he returns to his home town of Wetaskiwin in the summer.

WILLIAM ALEXANDER (BILL) GADSBY

Defense

Born: Calgary, Alberta, August 8, 1927. Height 6'. Weight 185 lbs.

A 15-year man in the National Hockey League, Bill Gadsby came to Detroit last summer from New York in exchange for a minor leaguer and cash. Detroit had almost obtained Bill in February, 1960 but a four-player deal was cancelled when the two Red Wings, Red Kelly and Billy McNeill, balked at the trade.

Gadsby broke into the National Hockey League the same season as Gordie Howe and the two are the oldest players in point of service in the league. In the Chicago system as a teen-ager, he turned pro in 1946 at the age of 19 and was sent to Chicago's Kansas City farm. After only 12 minor league games he was promoted to the Black Hawks, starting a long career in the big time.

It was not until his seventh season with Chicago that Gadsby began to become a take-charge guy and he was voted on the second All-Star team that year. Gadsby accomplished this again the next year, 1953-54, which also was his best scoring year with the Hawks and he was the second highest scoring NHL rearguard. His coach those two seasons was Sid Abel.

Traded to New York in mid-season, 1954-55, Gadsby blossomed into a star with the Rangers. In his first full year with New York, he set a Ranger scoring record for defensemen, tied for ninth place in league scoring, was the top scoring rearguard in the NHL, and was voted the Rangers' most valuable player as he led them into the playoffs for the first time in six years. For the next three seasons, Gadsby's name made the All-Star honor rolls.

However, 1959-60 was distinguished only by his ill-fated "trade" to the Red Wings. He was a Redshirt for 10 hours. The trade was announced at 11 p.m. after he had starred for the Rangers in a 3-1 defeat of Detroit at Olympia and it didn't go on the rocks officially until 9 a.m. the next morning.

In the limbo of the league most of his ice days, Gadsby's teams have qualified for the playoffs only four times in his 15 years. Personally, however, he has done his part and holds New York records in all three offensive departments—goals (14), assists (46, also a league mark), and points (51). Defensively, Gadsby's job on the blue line has always been superb; he works like a football quarterback in that he seems to run the show and set up the plays. Gadsby's proficiency as a two-way defenseman has not gone unnoticed; three times he has been voted the runner-up in the voting for the Norris Trophy which goes to the "defenseman with the greatest all-around ability."

HOWARD EDWARD (HOWIE) GLOVER

Right Wing

Born: Toronto, Ontario, February 14, 1935. Height 5'11". Weigh) 175 lbs.

A hard-going right winger, Howie Glover came up with 21 goals last season in his first full year in the National Hockey League. With his total, the 26-year-old Glover was the fourth highest goal scorer on the team. He ran third in the top rookie polls. During the year he progressed from an unknown quality to a dependable two-way forward.

Glover became Detroit property in the summer of 1960 when the Wings traded veteran defenseman Jim Morrison to Chicago to obtain the gifted young skater. While in the Hawks' system, Howie had been up to the big leagues for one brief trial three seasons back.

A native of Toronto, Howie became connected with Chicago when they drafted him in 1958 from Cleveland of the American League. Prior to this, he had been with the Toronto organization. He was originally Maple Leafe property, playing Junior "B" hockey with the Weston Dukes in 1952-53 and Junior "A" with the Toronto Marlboros in 1953-54.

Howie also played amateur hockey with Kitchener and Barrie. He spent one season, 1956-57, in the International League with Toledo as a Cleveland farmhand. The next year he was sent to Winnipeg where he had his first big season, scoring 38 goals. The following summer, he was picked up in the draft by Chicago and spent the majority of the season with the Hawks' Western League club in Calgary.

Glover's showing with Buffalo in 1959-60 attracted attention in the Red Wing organization. For the second time in his pro career, he surpassed the 30-mark in goals. Detroit's interest in Howie came naturally since he is the younger brother of a former Redshirt of the early 1950's, Freddie Glover.

WARREN EDWARD (ROCKY) GODFREY

Defense

Born: Toronto, Ontario, March 23, 1931. Height 6'1". Weight 190 lbs.

In his seventh season with the Red Wings and his tenth in the National Hockey League, 30-year-old Warren Godfrey is one of the elder statesmen among the Red Wings. A tall, smiling Irishman with short-cropped blond hair, Rocky, as he is known around hockey circles, came to Detroit from the Boston Bruins in a nine-player trade in the summer of 1955.

A player whose career was stalled from time to time while working up to the pro ranks, Godfrey was first spotted by Muzz Patrick of the Rangers while playing for Tacoma in 1951. He got a spot on Muz' brother's team, Boston, the next season. With only one season of minor league play behind him, he started in the NHL at the age of 21.

After three seasons as a Bruin regular, he joined the Red Wings as a result of a big swap in which he, Terry Sawchuk and Vic Stasiuk were the key names. Warren's defense play in his six years with Detroit has been steady but unspectacular, commendable but almost unnoticed. Last season, he had his best point-scoring year—19 on three goals and 16 assists. Rock's previous high had been 18 in two different years.

Godfrey is conspicuous on the ice because he is one of the few players in the NHL to wear a helmet. He suffered concussions in two successive seasons and since November, 1959 has had to sport a protective head-gear.

Godfrey is one of the many past and present Red Wings who has made Detroit his permanent home. A native of Toronto, he and his wife, Janette, are the parents of four little Godfreys.

PETER JOHN (PETE) GOEGAN

Defense

Born: Fort William, Ontario, March 6, 1935. Height 6' 1". Weight 195 lbs.

Pete Goegan came into his own last season and made his mark as a steady big league defenseman. Defensively, he performed capably while learning to do the job without picking up an overabundance of penalties. Offensively, he doubled his previous total point output by racking up 34 points while working on the power play.

The black-haired, jut-jawed Goegan (pronounced Goy-gun) has undergone a complete reversal of form since he first joined the Wings four years ago. Originally, a bash and crash type, Goegan has developed into a more polished worker who now gets the job done without resorting to the crushing body checks that he once distributed so freely.

Still, he is rough and tough and his enthusiasm for the game cannot be faulted. He goes at it all-out with a desire to learn the finer points of "defensemanship." At least one group of Detroit fans thought he progressed toward his goal last year and as a result Goegan was named their "most improved player." Another fan club called him the team's Unsung Hero of 1960-61.

Prior to last season, Pete had spent one full season with Detroit. Two years ago, he started with Detroit, but was sent to Edmonton where he showed such improvement that he was brought back for the season's final games. 1960-61 saw Pete become a regular defenseman and a member of the power play where his good hard shot enabled him to score five goals in 67 games, one more than he had tallied in 102 previous NHL starts.

a Traded to DETROIT for Gordon Hollingworth and cash, February, 1958.

GORDON (GORDIE) HOWE

Right Wing

Born: Floral, Saskatchewan, March 31, 1928. Height 6'. Weight 201 lbs.

Despite a season interrupted by injuries and ailments, Gordie Howe retained his annual title of the "Big Guy" on the Red Wings last year. He led the team in points, finished fifth in scoring, set a new right wing mark for assists (breaking his own record by one), was voted to the second All-Star team, ran third in the most valuable player balloting and set a team mark by picking up at least one point in 18 straight games and in all 11 playoff games.

Howe is the NHL's all-time top point producer and is the only player in history to tally over 1000 points in his career. He also has the all-time assist record. He has been the most valuable player a record five times. He has been an All-Star 12 times, seven first teams and five seconds. This year he will be the first player to take part in 1000 season games.

Due to all these accomplishments, Howe has seen his name entered into the record books in his 15-year NHL career more times than any other player in the history of the Detroit Hockey Club. Leader of the Red Wings, both in title and performance, Howe has already taken his place along-side the great figures in Michigan sports history. He holds the tenure mark among Detroit players and shares with Bill Gadsby the distinction of being the oldest player in point of service in the National League.

In addition to Howe's many league honors and trophies, he has achieved local heights untouched by any other Red Wing. Among his many team attainments are 11 straight seasons as its leading scorer (interrupted last year by Norm Ullman). He has paced the club in points as well in ten of those years. Indicating his value is the fact that he has been top man in all three offensive department in eight of his 15 years. Gord has taken the Detroit Hockey Writers' award as the team's most valuable player eight times in the last nine years. Also, he has established a remarkable durability record, missing only 18 games in the last 12 seasons, and only 40 in his entire career. In ten of his 15 seasons he played the entire schedule.

Showing Jack Adams' tremendous admiration for Howe is the fact that the veteran manager considers selecting the "Big Guy" out of a group of youngsters at a training camp and watching him develop into the "greatest player in the history of the game" his biggest thrill in hockey. First scouted as a juvenile in Saskatoon by the late Fred Pickney, Gord was sent East to Galt, Ontario in 1945. But his age of 16 prevented him from playing with the Detroit-sponsored Galt Juniors and he was forced to stay out of competitive hockey for a full year. However, he won a professional contract with Omaha the following fall and a single year of minor league experience brought him to Detroit and the big time when he was but 18 years old. It took three years of development before he blossomed and established himself as a star. As a star, many things enable him to stand out, but perhaps it is his ambidexterity that allows him to shoot either right or left handed which is his greatest single distinguishing characteristic.

On the way up, Gordie had to overcome several serious hockey injuries, the gravest of which was a head injury suffered in the 1950 playoffs which threatened his career. A special honor came his way in 1957 when he became the first active athlete in Michigan's history to be elected to the state's Sports Hall of Fame.

Immensely popular with sport fans everywhere, Gordie possesses natural humility not always found in an athlete of such tremendous stature. Off the ice he is a quiet, soft-spoken man with a clever sense of humor. However, he is a proud and dedicated athlete who has achieved his station in life through hard work and conscientious effort. A superbly coordinated athlete with potential to become proficient in almost any field he would choose, Howe sticks to golf as his second sporting love. Gord is rated as one of the better amateurs in the Detroit area and played in the Michigan Open last summer.

Gordie was married in 1953 to a Detroit girl and now the Howe family consists of three boys and a girl. Gord calls Detroit his permanent home and lives in one of the suburban areas. In the business world he is associated with baseball star Al Kaline as manufacturers' representatives and in the tool and die business.

FIRST ULLMAN, THEN HOWE SET NEW TEAM RECORD FOR CONSECUTIVE GAME POINTS

Gordie Howe set a Red Wing team record last season when he scored a point or better in 18 straight games from February 5 to March 15. He picked up ten goals and 17 assists in the record stretch which erased the previous best streak of 14 straight set by Norm Ullman at the start of the 1960-61 campaign. Ullman hit the scoresheet at least once in every start from the opening game through November 9, getting six goals and 15 assists.

Ullman's performance bettered by one the earlier Detroit record of 13 set by Ted Lindsay in 1956-57. Howe's streak was ended in the season's final game when Montreal shut out the Wings, 2-0. However, Gordie picked up again in the playoffs and proceeded to set some sort of NHL record by scoring a point or better in all 11 playoff games.

ALLAN EDMUND (AL) JOHNSON

Right Wing

Born: Winnipeg, Manitoba, March 30, 1935. Height 5'11". Weight 185 lbs.

Al Johnson says he owes a lot to the Montreal Canadiens. This in spite of spending over six years in their vast farm system. He is thankful because Montreal gave him the chance to make it in the National League when he was sold to the Red Wings in the summer of 1960.

Detroit is thankful, too, for Johnson's work during his rookie year with the Wings. Not only did he score 16 goals while taking part in every game, Al also played both wing positions. Normally a right wing, Johnson won a job there during the 1960 training camp and opened last season on the right side. During the year he was moved to left wing and continued to perform more than adequately. He is just one of the current team who can fill in at more than one position.

Al had a rough time breaking into the pro ranks. After a year of senior amateur with Three Rivers in 1954-55, he dropped out of hockey when he did not get the deal he felt he deserved. Back on the ice in 1956, Montreal farmed him in successive years to Cincinnati, Shawinigan and Spokane. This last stop proved to be Johnson's best as he experienced two fine seasons with the Comets. In 1959-60, he was the All-Star right wing in the Western Hockey League.

RED WINGS LOSE "ANGEL" RATING IN 1960-61; RANGERS MOST PENALTY-FREE TEAM

For the first time in six years, the Detroit Red Wings last season failed to hold on to their almost annual title of least penalized team in the NHL. By the margin of 64 minutes, New York beat out the Wings for this "honor", 655 to 591. In each of the past five years, the Red Wings had led or trailed, as the case may be, the league in the least number of penalty minutes. The last time Detroit did not gain this distinction was in 1954-55 when the Wings were third behind New York and Chicago with a total of 827, the most ever served by a Detroit team. At the other end of the ladder, Chicago last season set a league record for most minutes in the penalty box with 1,072, raising by a mere eight minutes the previous high of 1,064 set by Montreal in 1953-54.

LEO GERALD LABINE

Defense

Born: Haileybury, Ontario, July 22, 1931. Height 5'10". Weight 170 lbs.

"Leo the Lion" had been antagonizing Jack Adams and the Red Wings for more than eight years with his aggressive, spirited play. But he was Adams' type of hockey player—a rough, tough competitor. So when Adams got the chance to get him last year, the deal was made and it turned out to be a fine one.

An Irishman with a French name, Leo LaBine has been upsetting rival players, officials and spectators alike since he first made the Boston Bruins in 1952-53. This year is the 30-year-old LaBine's tenth season. Next to Montreal and the Rocket, who LaBine loved to heckle, Detroit always seemed to get the worst from the Haileybury Hurricane.

It was a shift out of Toronto to Barrie that started an 18-year-old LaBine on his way up. Moved from St. Mike's to the Barrie Flyers, he got on a championship team, one which won the Memorial Cup. LaBine was the All-Star right wing in the OHA that season. For the start of the next year, 1951-52, he was sent to Hershey, but came up to the Bruins in mid-season. His work in the 1952-53 playoffs earned him a regular spot the following season. Leo experienced his best year in 1954-55, leading the team in goals with 24, the only time he has cracked the 20-goal barrier.

As he developed into one of the best defensive forwards in the league, his scoring suffered. After 40 games with the B's last season, the Detroit trade was made and LaBine escaped from a cellar-bound team to a squad just beginning to pick up. His spirited play helped the Wings tremendously as they moved to a solid fourth place finish and into the playoffs.

EDWARD CHARLES JOHN (EDDIE) LITZENBERGER

Center

Born: Neudorf, Saskatchewan, July 15, 1932. Height 6'3". Weight 194 lbs.

Big Eddie Litzenberger made quite a change last summer. From spare center and captain of the champion Chicago Black Hawks he became a member of the Red Wings and middleman of Detroit's number one line. It was a step that could make the difference in Litz' hockey career.

Standing 6'3" and weighing close to 200 pounds, Litzenberger has jet black hair and a lean and sharp-featured face. He also has all the necessary equipment a hockey player needs—a strong, muscular body, fine coordination and terrific hockey know-how. Litz' National League career has been one of ups and downs. Never was he more down than in December, 1959 when an automobile accident took the life of his wife and severely injured him. This would have to be the turning point in his hockey life, and since then he has not been able to return to his form when he was a 30-goal man for three straight years. Jack Adams and Sid Abel think a change of scene plus his new marriage will do the trick. Adams grabbed Litz at the June meetings, giving up a pair of forwards. If Ed lives up to his expectations, the deal will go down in history as another of Adams' great moves.

Litzenberger has been held in high esteem ever since his junior days out West. Turned pro in 1952 by Montreal, he was farmed out to the Quebec League where he racked up 57 goals in two seasons. He opened the 1954-55 season with the Habs, but ended up with Chicago as the Montreal contribution to the league's "Help the Hawks" policy.

The shift to last-place Chicago failed to alter his play and Litz became the league's top rookie. The next season the big right wing suffered from the sophomore jinx. The following year, Litz turned in the first of three straight terrific years. Fifth in league scoring in 1956-57, he was picked as center (his new position) on the second All-Star team. Named captain before the 1958-59 year, Litz had his best year and again finished fifth in scoring.

BRUCE CAMERON MacGREGOR

Center

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, April 26, 1941. Height 5'10". Weight 175 lbs.

Probably the most respected young player in the Detroit system is 20-year-old Bruce MacGregor. A product of the Red Wings' Western set-up, MacGregor is a native of Edmonton and played all his minor hockey there.

MacGregor came into prominence two seasons ago when he starred for the Edmonton Oil Kings in the Memorial Cup finals. As captain of the junior team, the red-haired MacGregor paced the Kinglets in their series with St. Catherines. He was the team's sparkplug, scoring six goals in six games for an overall performance in the playoffs of 31 goals, 32 assists for 63 points in 36 post-season games.

In the summer of 1960, MacGregor signed his first professional contract at 19. He received the highest bonus ever given by the Detroit Hockey Club to a junior player.

From the Detroit training camp in 1960, he moved onto the roster of the Edmonton Flyers. From the season's start until called up to the Red Wings in February, Bruce easily made his adjustment to pro hockey. He became a 20-goal scorer with Edmonton while working at both center and right wing. The 19-year-old made his presence known the night of April 12 in the playoffs with Chicago when he scored the winning goal in a 2-1 victory in the fourth game.

As far as a quick profile of MacGregor the player, this was written during his junior days: "He has everything needed to become an outstanding pro—strong skater, quick thinker with hard shot, goes best after being hit."

RED WINGS SMASH SINGLE GAME ATTENDANCE MARK TWICE IN 1960-61

Not once but twice in 1960-61 did the Detroit Red Wings set a new single game attendance mark at Olympia. On Thanksgiving (November 24), 15,859 fans turned out to look in on the Montreal-Detroit game which was won by the Wings, 3-1. This figure topped by 68 the previous high for a hockey game at Olympia, 15,791 on April 16, 1954. The new record lasted until the final game of the season when another Montreal-Detroit battle attracted a crowd of just 17 less than 16,000 — 15,983. This was 124 more than the earlier record mark. The 15,791 still stands as the top playoff figure, however.

GERALD BERNARD (GERRY) ODROWSKI

Defense

Born: Trout Creek, Ontario, October 4, 1938. Height 5'11". Weigh) 185 lbs.

Gerry Odrowski came through with flying colors last season in his rookie year in the National Hockey League. The 23-year-old defenseman received sufficient recognition to finish fourth in the rookie of the year race.

After being voted the top defenseman in the Eastern Professional League in 1959-60, Gerry was handed the job as fifth man on the Detroit blue line corps last year. He filled that position capably and also took a few turns on the forward line. Originally a right wing, Odrowski didn't move back to defense until four years ago. The switch was made by his coach, Bucko McDonald, who also guided Gerry in Sault Ste. Marie in 1958-59. Bucko, a former Red Wing defense star, first coached Odrowski when he was 16. Both McDonald and Odrowski come from the same Ontario town, Trout Creek, a small lumber center 30 miles south of North Bay.

Gerry's first and only NHL goal came last February in a game at Olympia against Montreal. In the playoffs, he filled in on left wing and proved to be a hard skater and digger.

Fans should not let Gerry's appearance fool them into thinking he is much older than his years. He is somewhat bald due to a sickness he had in his youth. Gerry was married last summer and makes his home in Trout Creek.

RENE MARCEL PRONOVOST

Defense

Born: Lac a la Tortue, Quebec, June 15, 1930. Height 6', Weight 190 lbs.

The most successful French-Canadian player outside the Montreal organization is Marcel Pronovost, Detroit's eleven-year veteran defenseman. For four year running, Pronovost has been recognized as an All-Star. Last season, he was voted to the first All-Star team for the second straight time. The Red Wing's own Flying Frenchman made the second squad for two consecutive years before he moved up to the premier group.

A steady figure on the Detroit blue line since 1951, Marcel is a real student of the game. A quiet, studious and serious individual off the ice, Pronovost is the same on the ice. He is a cool, calculating player—one who thinks out the next move before performing it.

When first sighted by scout Marcel Cote, Marcel was playing juvenile hockey in Shawinigan Falls, Quebec. He was sent to Windsor as a candidate for the Detroit-sponsored Spitfires. As early as this in his hockey career, Marcel's determination was shown by his equal interest in his improvement in hockey, in learning the English language, and in futhering his education.

Pronovost turned professional in 1949 when he was 19 and was assigned to Omaha where he was named rookie of the year. Starting with Detroit the following season, he was sent to the minors in mid-year to gain some additional defense polish. Pronovost returned to Detroit to stay in 1951. Since then, his all-out play back of the blue line combined with his daring rink-long rushes have thrilled many and made him quite popular with fans everywhere.

TERRANCE GORDON (TERRY) SAWCHUK

Goaltender

Born: Winnipeg, Manitoba, December 28, 1929. Height 5'11". Weight 180 lbs.

The more experienced half of the Red Wing goalie tandem is Terry Sawchuk. A veteran of 11 years in the NHL, nine with Detroit and two with Boston, Sawchuk is the dean of National League goalies. 1961-62 is his 12th season and among the netminders, only Toronto's Turk Broda was around that long.

A three-time winner of the Vezina Trophy as the league's leading goalie and five-time All-Star team member, Sawchuk is regarded by many to be the finest player ever to strap on a pair of goalie pads.

He led the league in shutouts three times and, going into this season, had 83 to his credit, most among active goalies and only 11 short of the all-time record. He established an outstanding mark at the outset of his pro career by being chosen as rookie of the year in each of the three leagues in which he played.

Perhaps Sawchuk's finest moment occurred in the 1951-52 playoffs when he hung up four shutouts and allowed only five goals as the champion Red Wings won the Stanley Cup in a never-to-be-broken record of eight straight games. In last year's playoffs he was terrific in the opening round, then was hurt in the first game of the finals.

As a Detroit farm system goalie, Terry filled in for seven games in 1949-50 and proved himself ready for NHL play. The following year, he was handed the regular Detroit job. The All-Star game of 1950 was his first as a Detroit regular and the 20-year-old whiz turned back the game's best players as Detroit won 7-1.

Through his early years, Terry displayed the new style that he introduced to the game—the crouch position. This unique stance plus his remarkably fast reflexes and excellent hands, coupled with his love of the sport which makes him a die-hard, fiery competitor are the items that stamps him one of the most successful goaltenders in history. A real scrapper, he has received over 100 penalty minutes in his career.

Of Ukranian descent, Sawchuk halls from East Kildonan, a section of Winnipeg. He became an American citizen in 1959 and long ago took up permanent residence with his family in a Detroit suburb.

VICTOR JOHN (VIC) STASIUK

Born: Lethbridge, Alberta, May 23, 1929. Height 6'1". Weight 185 lbs.

"That trade was one of the big reasons we made the playoffs last year." So speaks Jack Adams of the deal that brought Vic Stasiuk and Leo LaBine to Detroit last January. The veteran manager also says of Stasiuk, "I always regreted trading Vic in the first place." "In the first place" would be six years ago, and a nine-player swap between Detroit and Boston. Stasiuk was expendable because he had not particularly distinguished himself in four Detroit trials. Sent to Boston, he developed into a star wingman.

The return to Detroit was the second great break of Vic's career. The first would be his move to Boston where he came into his own. Sporting the Red and White once again, Vic picked up when put with Howe and Delvecchio, and he scored twice as many goals in half as many games as he had with Boston. Unfortunately, Stasiuk did not get a chance to star in the playoffs. He hurt his knee in the season's next-to-last game, missed the finale, but managed to get into all Cup games, although he was well below par physically.

Stasiuk started out in the Chicago system. Vic was assigned to Kansas City in 1948 at 19. Two years later, Detroit traded two players to the Hawks to get him. In his first full year in the Red Wing organization, he started at Indianapolis but after scoring seven goals in his first eight games, he was called up.

He opened the 1952-53 campaign as a spare forward on the Wings, saw only brief action, and was delivered to Edmonton where he had his best year. With the Flyers, he scored 37 goals and 43 assists, but missed the final month and a half with a dislocated hip. The next two years he moved between Edmonton and Detroit, and in the summer of 1955, came the Boston trade.

NORMAN VICTOR ALEXANDER (NORM) ULLMAN

Center

Born: Provost, Alberta, December 26, 1935. Height 5'10". Weight 185 lbs.

For years Jack Adams has called quiet Norm Ullman an under-rated player. Last season in his own unnoticed but effective way, Ullman went out and made his presence known. In his best year in the league, the 25-year-old center led the team in goals, missed by only two points of doing the same in points, finished sixth in league scoring and set a temporary team record by getting a point or more in 14 consecutive games. In fact, he scored at a point a game pace all year and wound up with 70 points in the 70 games.

His totals in all three offensive departments were the highest of his six-year National Hockey League career. He has been a 20-goal man for four straight years. Normie's showing in 1960-61 enabled him to jump five places to ninth on the all-time Detroit scoring list. Ullman topped off his great season with a four-goal outburst in the third to last game. Unfortunately, this proved to be his final scoring for the year as he unexpectedly came up emptyhanded in the next 13 games, the season's final two games plus all 11 playoffs.

The stocky and powerful Westerner began his pro career in the Detroit system in 1954. The season previous, he had led the Red Wings-sponsored Edmonton Oil Kings to the Memorial Cup finals. After a season with the Edmonton Flyers, during which they won the Western League title and playoff championship, Ullman moved up to the Wings for the 1955-56 campaign. He spent his rookie year getting adjusted to the NHL, then proceeded to take over a regular center spot the following year, working quietly but efficiently. This season is his seventh term in the Motor City.

HOWARD JOHN EDWARD (HOWIE) YOUNG

Defense

Born Toronto, Ontario, August 2, 1937. Height 5'11". Weight 190 lbs.

Howie Young came on the local hockey scene last year like a missile—an unguided one! Nevertheless, he quickly became the people's choice after being summoned from the minors in January. Promoted strictly on Sid Abel's belief that he could help the team, Young's aggressive, fiery play contributed greatly to the Wings' success. Throughout his hockey history, the tempestous Young has had a succession of "incidents" stemming from his all-out, rough and tough play. Howie is no stranger to the penalty box, spending exactly 300 minutes, or five hours, there last season.

A fine skater who possesses terrific balance and coordination. Young started out his early days as a right wing. A native of Toronto, he first played Junior "A" at 17 with Kitchener in 1954-55. His coach then was former Red Wing star defenseman, Jack Stewart, which explains why Young adopted such a bashing style. Montreal property while at Kitchener, he was loaned by the Canadiens to Hamilton, a Red Wing affiliation. After his Hamilton stay, Montreal sold him to Toronto. Then the Leafs sold him to Hershey after the 1959-60 season.

On loan to Detroit from the Bears, Young gained enough stature and impressed the Detroit management enough so that in June a deal for him was made with Hershey. At the time of Young's signing his 1961-62 contract on his 24th birthday, Jack Adams said "Young's rapid development and fierce, aggressive play was one of the reasons for our making the playoffs and for our fine showing in the Cup games. However he still is not a polished National Leaguer and must work hard to prove himself."

1 - 2 - 3 - 4 - 5 - 6 GOALS IN ONE PERIOD!

The date was Nov. 3, 1960, and the game was developing into a Boston win at Olympia as the Bruins led, 5-2, after two periods. But at 2:21 it started: Parker MacDonald scored for Detroit. At 4:45, Norm Ullman hit to cut the deficit to one. Al Johnson tied the score three minutes later and 44 seconds after that, Ullman scored to put Detroit in front. Not finished yet, the Redshirts tallied twice more to climax a six-goal, 12-minute comeback and give the Wings the game, 8-5. As wild as the outburst was, it was not a record. On Jan. 23, 1944, Detroit scored eight times in the third period to set a NHL mark. However, the Nov. 3 onslaught was more dramatic because it enabled the team to come from behind to win a seemingly lost game. In the 1944 game, the Wings went into the final period leading 7-0.

THESE ARE THE GUYS THAT DID IT

The six grinning Red Wings shown above were the ones responsible for the eight goals in the Wings' come-from-behind victory over Boston Nov. 3. The scorers were Al Johnson, Jerry Melnyk, Norm Ullman, Warren Godfrey, Parker MacDonald and Gary Aldcorn. Both Melnyk and Ullman each scored twice. In addition to being important goals in the win, the markers by Johnson and Ullman were milestones for them. It was Al's first NHL goal and the pair were Ullman's 99th and 100th goals of his big league career.

June 6-7-8: Annual NHL meetings in Montreal. Detroit picks up four new players, Howie Glover by trade, Allan Johnson by purchase, and Parker MacDonald and Hank Bassen by draft.

July 12: Gordie Howe signs his contract for 1960-61, the Detroit Captain's 15th season in the NHL, a local record.

Sept. 15: Maurice "Rocket" Richard announces his retirement after 18 years in the NHL.

Oct. 2: NHL All-Star game at Montreal—All-Stars 2, Montreal Canadiens 1. Howe hurts knee.

Oct. 5: Red Wings open 1960-61 season at Chicago with 1-1 tie and without Howe.

Oct. 9: Howe returns, scores once in 3-3 tie with Toronto at Olympia.

Oct. 16: Detroit defeats Montreal 6-4 for first victory of season.

Oct. 21: Terry Sawchuk shuts out Boston 5-0 as Bruins and Red Wings stage "battleground." Detroit's Ullman, Odrowski and McKenzie and Boston's Stasiuk, Horvath and Flaman all receive majors.

Oct. 22: Glover scores first NHL goal (the winning goal) as Detroit defeats Maple Leafs 2-1 at Toronto.

Oct. 24: Junior Wings open second Border Cities League season with 8-1 triumph over Windsor.

Nov. 3: Johnson scores first NHL goal as Detroit makes greatest come-back in team's history by scoring six times in final period to beat Boston, 8-5.

Nov. 9: Ullman sets Detroit record by getting a point or better in each of team's first 14 games, totals six goals and 15 assists.

Nov. 10: Detroit wins fifth straight game (4-1 at Boston) to tie Montreal for first place.

Nov. 12: Montreal defeats Detroit and Hank Bassen 4-2 to break deadlock; Bassen's first loss in six starts.

Nov. 24: Thanksgiving game attracts 15,859. Red Wings behind Bassen turn back Montreal 3-1.

Nov. 26: Marcel Pronovost scores at 19:35 of last period (Bassen out) to tie Toronto 3-3 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Nov. 27: Howe gets 1,000th regular season point to become first player in NHL history to reach this milestone. Detroit beats Toronto on Sawchuk's second shutout (2-0).

Dec. 1: Howe picks up point No. 1,092 of career to break Richard's NHL mark.

. . . 1960-61 Season

January 4: Howe suffers concussion and Glover scores hat trick as Wings lose 6-4 at Toronto.

January 14: Howe returns after missing three games, gets one assist; Howie Young plays first game after reporting from Hershey; Detroit and New York tie 2-2 in first matinee of season at Olympia.

January 15: Bob Turner scores on a 65-foot bloop shot with 12 seconds left to give Montreal a 4-4 tie with Detroit here.

January 24: Detroit and Boston trade five players: Vic Stasiuk and Leo LaBine come here, Murray Oliver, Gary Aldcorn and Tom McCarthy go to the Bruins.

January 28: Sid Abel pulls Sawchuk, Howe scores his second goal at 19:35 to give Wings a 3-3 tie with Canadiens at the Forum.

February 4: Stasiuk scores his first goal as a Red Wing, but Detroit loses 4-2 at Toronto.

February 5: Detroit beats Montreal 7-2 here as Alex Delvecchio scores two, his 20th and 21st of season.

February 8: Ullman gets 37th assist, a personal high, but Detroit loses 5-2 at Chicago.

February 9: Howe celebrates his "good luck night" sponsored by the Crisis Club by scoring twice in leading Detroit to a 4-2 victory over Rangers here.

February 18: Ullman picks up his 20th goal and LaBine gets his first as a Red Wing as Detroit defeats Boston 5-1 in an Olympia afternoon game.

February 19: Howe scores 500th goal of his NHL career and LaBine's rink-long "pass" goes into the open Detroit goal as Montreal wins 4-2 at Olympia.

February 23: Ullman sets a personal high in total points as he picks up numbers 59 and 60 in a 3-3 Detroit-Boston tie here.

March 2: Howe hits the 20-goal mark for the 12th straight year, but John Bucyk scores the hat trick to give Boston a 4-2 win over Detroit.

March 4: Howe (3 assists) and Stasiuk (1 goal, 3 assists) combine in a great effort at the Forum but Detroit lost 6-4; Glover scores his 20th to become only fourth rookie in Wing history to do so.

March 9: Wings clinch playoff berth for 22nd time in last 23 years with 5-2 win at Boston.

March 14: Ullman scores four times as Detroit tops New York, 5-2.

March 19: Trophy Night: Ullman leads team in goals, Howe in points, Bassen rated top rookie; Montreal wins 2-0 before largest crowd, 15,983.

April 1: Wings eliminate Toronto, four games to one, in semi-finals.

April 16: Chicago beats Detroit 5-1 in sixth game of finals to win Stanley Cup.

RED WINGS' TWO-GOALIE SYSTEM PRODUCES HIGH SCORERS, TOO!

Terry Sawchuk and Hank Bassen not only took care of keeping the puck out of the Detroit net in 1960-61, they also assisted in putting it in the enemy's goal on two occasions. Sawchuk picked up an assist a rare feat for a goalie, on November 27 when he fed the puck to Gordie Howe who passed it to Norm Ullman who scored. Not to be outdone by his veteran counterpart, Bassen, the other half of Detroit's dual netminding staff, received an assist on March 2 at Boston when Howe took the puck from him and skated the length of the rink to score. While it was a new accomplishment for the "rookie" Bassen, Sawchuk is an old hand at getting assists. He has three to his credit, one in 1953-54 and another in 1954-55.

PART 3

The Past Seasons

History of the Detroit Hockey Club

Now in its 36th consecutive year of operation and membership in the National Hockey League, the Detroit Hockey Club has compiled a long and illustrious record. Through capable management and intelligent direction, the Detroit organization has become perhaps the strongest of the United States members of the National League, hockey's major league.

ADAMS

The beginnings were humble and slow. The first team to represent Detroit in the NHL — the franchise was granted on Sept. 25, 1926 — was an orphan team. Because the Detroit Cougars made their professional debut before Olympia was built, they played their initial season using Windsor's Border Cities Arena for their home ice. Detroit's first NHL game was on November 18, 1926. Boston beat the Cougars, 2-0.

The original Detroit club developed out of the Victoria Cougars of the old Western Canada League. The team had been purchased intact to provide playing personnel for the new Detroit franchise in the NHL and the nickname came along in the deal. Among the players were Frank Frederickson, Frank Foyston and goalie Harry Holmes.

After an unsuccessful first year in which the Cougars finished last, the following season — 1927 — saw the hockey club begin to establish itself. Olympia Stadium was built and the team moved into its present permanent home. The first pro hockey game ever played in Olympia occurred on November 22, 1927, as the Ottawa Senators defeated the Cougars, 2-1. Detroit's' only goal— the first one ever scored at Olympia — was scored by Johnny Sheppard.

SHEPPARD

The starting step up the hockey ladder to success came when Jack Adams was brought in from Ottawa to be Detroit's new manager and coach. The seeds of the present successful club were sown with this move. Adams had concluded his ten-year pro playing career at the age of 32 as a member of the Stanley Cup-winning Ottawa team.

GOODFELLOW

Detroit qualified for the playoffs for the first time in 1929, their third year of operation, and it marked their only taste of success in the first five years. During this time the team's name was changed from Cougars to Falcons, the shift being made by the press in an effort to bring better luck.

A further stride in a forward direction came when the late James Norris purchased the team in 1933. The multi-millionaire Chicago grain broker had long dreamed of owning a big league hockey team. Canadian-born, he had played amateur hockey in his youth in Montreal, and had developed an undying love for the game.

The Norris-Adams combination was a most happy union for both hockey in general and Detroit in particular. The initial year of the new ownership — 1933-34 — saw the team winning the American Division and National League championship, bowing only to Chicago in the finals of the playoffs.

It was at the time of the Norris purchase of the club that the name Red Wings, with the present crest and color scheme, was adopted. The idea came from Mr. Norris' admiration for the insignia and name of a Montreal amateur team, the Winged Wheelers, and its application to Detroit as the hub of the automobile industry.

The Red Wings first won the Stanley Cup — emblematic of the world's professional hockey championship — two years later in 1936 and then repeated the following season. Some of the players on the team that first brought the Cup to the Motor City were Syd Howe, Larry Aurie, captain; Doug Young, Ebbie Goodfellow and goalie Normie Smith. In the '36 playoffs Detroit and Montreal Maroons played almost two hours of overtime before Mud Bruneteau scored the game's only goal to give the Wings the win in hockey history's longest game.

SYD HOWE

Through its glorious history, the Detroit Hockey has won 12 NHL championships and 7 Stanley Cups, a mark for United States teams. The Wings put together a truly remarkable string when they finished in first place seven straight years—from 1948-49 until 1954-55. In 1952, Detroit won the Stanley Cup in the shortest possible route, eight straight games, to establish a record that can never be broken, only equaled as it was in 1959-60 by Montreal. The Red Wings qualified for the annual post-season playoff competition 20 consecutive years, from 1939 to 1958, another distinguished record. In the 1950-51 season the Redshirts established another mark when they compiled 101 points in 70 games on 44 wins and 13 ties as against only 13 losses, still another record.
